building products

When Gypsum Management and Supply, Inc. (GMS) opened our doors in 1971, customer service was the cornerstone of everything we did. The same holds true today. Our unique service model combines the benefits of national scale with a local “go-to-market” strategy. Using an integrated national platform, we operate through more than 50 brands with solid reputations, strong relationships, and local expertise.

Our core values are more than words – they’re the foundation on which our company was built and woven into everything we do. Our motto “You can never go wrong doing the right thing” has been around since our founders took their first order. From employee culture to customer relations, we always follow that guiding principle.

Customers

Founded in 1971 by Dick Mueller and Dick Whitcomb, GMS wouldn't be the company it is today without the hundreds of communities we serve across the U.S. and Canada. After all, our subsidiary companies are built and operated by local experts who understand your needs and, more importantly, are active contributors in the community. Our companies regularly raise money and awareness for fighting disease, donate supplies and help communities rebuild after disasters, and give to other philanthropic causes.

Builders, contractors and construction professionals trust GMS for all their building and construction supply needs. Our constantly growing network of locally-owned and operated subsidiaries have more than 50 years of experience getting things done the right way.

One big family of local brands

GMS has a growing network of companies with more than 290 distribution centers in the US and Canada. In keeping with the GMS commitment to entrepreneurship, each operates independently with local management to best respond to the needs of its customers and market.
